KLINGON FACTIOD:

The reason why Klingon's blood was Pepto-Bismol colored in St6 was to keep it a PG rating. Klingon blood is red like a Terrans.

Maximum Overkill is printed monthly to semi monthly for the entertainment purposes of the crew of the Klingon Assault Group (KAG) chapter, the IKV Black Demon. Current price for the news letter is $12 to get you 6 issues. By sending in art, stories, reports, or anything to be printed, we assume you are giving permission for print unless written otherwise.

FROM THE CAP'N

Greetings fellow warriors. Do I have a treat for you all! Your old "Unkle" Kahn was able to get a hold of some old KAG quartermaster files. Well, I guess I should say I got some old issues of KAG's Mindscanner and in there were some old quartermaster files. Since the information was put out for members, I am reprinting them here for us to utilize. That is part of the reason we put out newsletters. You will also notice that some of the graphics and the over all appearance of the newsletter has changed. This is due to the disk that I stored the template on went bad and ate the information. Thankfully, the disks that held a majority of the graphics were okay. I wanted to get this together and in the mail as fast as I could. I also lost the type-style I used for "Maximum Overkill". This is okay as I really wasn't too happy with the look of the type-style, it was kinda of hard to read. The type-style was something that fellow warrior got off a BBS.

Besides seeing a lot of costuming ideas and instructions, I am also including a really great bit of info on creating your Klingon character. I have had many people ask me the proper way of doing this and the info I have is such in bad shape, I actually took the time to retype it. I hope this helps out current members and hope the new members find it helpful as well. Thanks to Thought Master Kei epetai-Khemara for putting it together.

Along the bottom of these pages, you will find additional information concerning everything a warrior would be interested in learning more about. Everything from linguistics to props can be found. Remember to always send a self-addressed stamped envelope (SASE), these guys get a lot of mail and they can't afford to answer all of them on their dime. Thanks to Admiral Klag for the info!

I would like to thank my instructor in attempting on recovering the lost info and suggestions on a page layout. Luckily, I had a printed copy of our previous issue in my dorm, so I used it to look back for page placements. Many thanks to Thought Admiral Kris, Admiral Klag zantai-Kurkura, Admiral Kragtowl zantai-Trekkan, Qeldas, and the many members (I'm sure I'm looking over) for contributing the quartermaster files to us and the rest of the membership.

So with that, I want you to keep this SUPER-SIZED issue handy, hell, laminate it if you need to. The information in this issue will help you all immensely. I wanted to re-type everything and clean up the art, but with the time I have in the computer lab, we'll just have to deal with the scans. Perhaps one day when I am more skilled and I have a computer of my own to do the design work, I make that a reality.

Department reports and other wackiness will continue in our next issue. Enjoy! I will see you all at the June meeting.

KLINGON COSTUMING

by

Admiral Kragtowl zantai-Trekkan

This is the beginning of a series of articles on developing the Imperial Klingon uniform. I have been involved in costuming for the past fifteen years and I have won awards at science fiction and fantasy conventions over the past three years. Although, I am better known for my fantasy costuming, I recently have been given compliments on my Imperial Klingon costume. In these articles, I will be describing the following pieces of the uniform:

Bracers or Armguards	Body Armor	Battle Sash
Belt and Buckle	Command Cloak	Awards and Medals
Boots	Uniform pants	Uniform undershirt
	Headpiece

These items will be described individually on construction methods and material. I attempt to always make the items authentic looking but as inexpensive as possible. I am not saying these are the best methods for creating these pieces but are ideas for those who need help with different sections of thier uniform.

Any questions or suggestions on the following articles, please write to:

William R. Reed
201 Kohrs St.
Wentzville MO 63385

Again, these articles are to help my brother and sister Klingons create or enhance thier uniform and bring greater glory to the Empire!

One area that concerns many of us is makeup application. While I am able to answer many of your questions on this subject, KAG Q does have an expert to answer the tough stuff. He is: CHIEF GENETIC ENGINEER Lt. Commander K'ESTU vestai-K'TARRA (Alan Tuskes) - 1623 Grace Avenue - Lakewood, Ohio 44107. Phone # is: (216) 228-1812 or (216) 521-8035. When contacting K'ESTU or any of the Q Staff - include a Self-Addressed Stamped Envelope for a reply. On phone calls, it's YOUR nickle.

IMPERIAL KLINGON UNIFORM

The below illustration is the standard design except for the area of the shoulder armor. In the drawing below, the shoulder armor is designed for the ranks of Captain and above. To make the uniform correct for the lower ranks, the shoulder armor is solid all the way across the shoulders with no ceremonial award necklace. A collar is worn much like a close fitting neck brace with th rank insignia upon it.

- A. SHOULDER ARMOR
- B. FOREARM SHIELDING
- C. SERVICE RANK
- D. CEREMONIAL AWARD NECKLACE
- E. COMMUNICATOR POUCH
- F. RANK DESIGNATION
- G. BELT BUCKLE

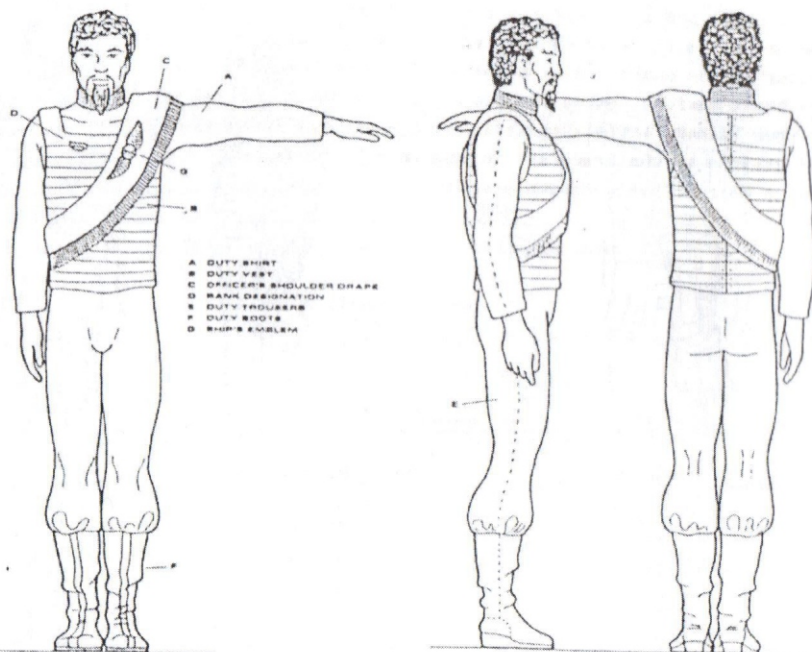

KILSOLYN NEYGE BH (Kenneth Darden) - Superior Costumes - 225 E. Ridge, Suite 4 - Marquette, Mich. 49855. A S.A.S.E. will get you his uniform pricelist. Commander KARV sutai-KLENNMEL (Arvil Bowmer) - owner of S.F.Quartermaster. Further info of KARV will be found in his article on the following pages.

HUMAN-FUSION KLINGON UNIFORM

The Human-Fusion Uniform is alot easier to construct and has less restriction. The make-up use is less than that of the Imperial costume but much more detailed to accent the Human-fusion features. A Human-fusion uniform can be accomplished by a pair of metallic looking pants, a black turtleneck and a gold or bronze vest designed like the drawing below.

KAG T-SHIRTS are now available. They are red with the black and yellow KAG Insignia over the left breast. They are MANES 50/50 better quality. Sizes available are: M L XL and XXL and are $15.00 each POSTAGE INCLUDED. Make your check or money order to: CHARLYN HAGUEWOOD (KAHRA xantal-NASHUNG) - 429 Ferdinand Avenue, Basement - Forest Park, Illinois 60130-1719. Show your colors at cons, on the streets, or wherever.

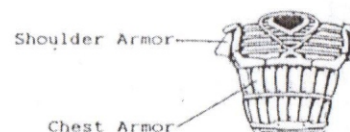

BODY ARMOR

MATERIALS: Karate Gi top Gray vinyl Short Robe Pattern

There are many different ways to make inexpensive body armor. I used a Karate Gi top with the sleeves removed and dyed to a smoke gray color. I cut out shoulder armor from teh gray vinyl and attached it to the Gi top. I admit this doesn't sound like much but it works and gives the desired effect with a lot less expense.

Another method is to aquire a short robe pattern and use the gray vinyl for the material. Modifications to this design are to leave the sleeves off. Cut the vinyl into two inch strips and sew the strips about 1/2 inch apart, vertically on to the vinyl robe. Cut out shoulder armor and add the same two inch strips and sew them 1/2 inch apart except lay them from shoulder to shoulder, horizontally. Although this method looks the most authentic, it is also extremely warm in most enviroments.

UNIFORM PANTS AND UNDERSHIRT

MATERIALS: Black shirt or turtleneck Black pants or sweatpants

These items sorta speak for themselves. The uniform pants may also be a smoke gray color. Closer examination of photos reveal that they are gray in color with a ribbing design. These may be accented by adding creative jewelry or designs but not to a point of extreme. After all, Klingons are not real flashy in thier uniform but each shows a distinct sign of individuality.

For those of you interested in engineering, our CHIEF ENGINEER/TECHNICAL OFFICER is Lt. ZAHN tal-LORRENSITH (John Stettner) - Route 737 - R.D. 1, Box 810 - Lenhartsville, Pennsylvania 19534. ZAHN is a professional model builder and has his own company - Model Concepts. He just finished an interesting project where he constructed 30 models of actual sighted U.P.O.s from drawings and photos. ZAHN has his own files dealing with vessels and such. He is also interested in hearing from other KAG members that might like to work with him in his field. If you would like to help out in the Engineering department - contact ZAHN directly.

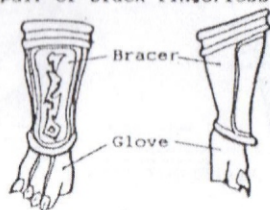

BRACERS OR ARMGUARDS

MATERIALS: Black vinyl Football Forearm Guards Thin Gauge Plastic

Begin by cutting the black vinyl into pieces that will cover the padded sections of the forearm guards. Sew those sections on to the guards. Cut four strips of black vinyl to lengths that will circle the ends of the guards. Take one strip and sew the edges together, inside out. Do the same to the rest of the strips, then turn them right side out. If you have done it correctly, you should have four black vinyl tubes. Stuff the tubes with matting and sew each tube to one end of the forearm guards, ensure you center the tube with the center of the guard. Sewing the ends of the tubes flat will finish the basic design. Using the thin gauge plastic, cut out the letters of your Klingon initials including honorific. Color the letters gold and attache to the Bracers. To complete the effect for the uniform, wear a pair of black fingerless gloves.

BATTLE SASH

MATERIALS: Kung Fu Sash Choice of color material

A Kung Fu sash is about five inches wide and is a length that can be cut to an appropriate size. The sash should be four to five inches wide and drape from the right shoulder to the left side of the waist.

Upon the sash is worn usually the family line symbol and/or the branch symbol. A Battle Sash is an award of honor and should be worn proudly.

Our Linguistics Specialist is Accredited Specialist ANGGHAL sutai-MU'OGH (Dr. Lawrence M. Schoen) - Klingon Language Institute - P.O. Box 74 - Lake Bluff, Illinois 60044. You will find more information about the K.L.I. on the inside back cover of this issue. If you are interested in learning more about the Klingon language, I strongly suggest you join his group. It would be a good idea if at least one person from each KAG vessel took on the job of acting as liaison with the K.L.I. He is available to answer your questions on ANY facet of Klingonness.

COMMAND CLOAK

MATERIALS: Gray Navy Blanket or a Blanket that can be dyed gray

The Command Cloak is a long sleeveless vest worn by the officers in charge of a unit or command. Lay the blanket out flat and find the center from each edge. Start with one edge and fold the edge over into three or four inch section. Keep folding the section until the width from the center of the blanket to the edge of the section matches the measurement from the center of your neck to the edge of one shoulder.

Repeat for the other side of the blanket. Sew the folds together at one end of the blanket. After both sections are sewn together, turn the blanket so that the stitching is underneath. Cut slits into the sides between the folds to make arm holes. To accent the command cloak, attache some brass sections near the top of the cloak and glue symbols to these.

BELT AND BUCKLE

MATERIALS: A two or three inch wide black belt Black Buttons
Thin Gauge Plastic Black vinyl

The buckle is the is the hardest piece to create. First thing to be done is cut the design of the buckle out of the plastic. Cover the design with black vinyl and glue it to the plastic. Cut the plastic to a width of about 1/2 inch and make a border on the buckle.

Glue the border to the vinyl and paint it gold. Make sure the buttons can lay flush against the vinyl before gluing in place. The pattern for the buttons should be three at the top and two at the bottom. Use velcro on the back of the buckle to attach to the belt.

NOTE: Notice the design for the buttons on the below drawing.

Some of our shrewd KAG warriors from Missouri wanted to see what the KAG SKULL PIN looked like before they sent in a check or money order for $4.00. "Show me". Well, here's a copy of the little guy--uglier'n a Gorn with zits. The skulls are white, with black highlights and a rather sardonic smile. I just got a batch of these guys in, so if your interested, make your payola c/o JOHN HALVORSON, P.O. Box 421, Reese MI 48757.

IMPERIAL HEADPIECE

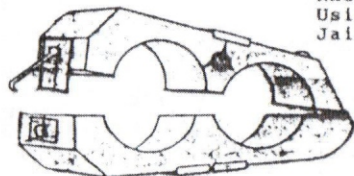

MATERIALS: Liquid Latex Wig Glue
Plaster Modeling Clay Scissors
Baby Powder Styrafoam Head Head Bust(Bald)

The main piece of an Imperial Klingon costume is the headpiece, also known as the turtle head, speed bump or cheese grater. This item is usually made-up of two sections, the latex ridge and the wig. The latex ridge or appliance is very difficult to create if you are not use to working with latex. The first step is to choose a design for the ridge that you want to have. Looking at photographs or drawings of Klingons is one method of choosing or design your own. After a design has been chosen, model the clay on the bust to the same design and allow it to set. The clay should not harden completely (use a clay that will not harden) and apply the plaster to the sculpture and cover the design completely. Allow the plaster to set. Once the mold has hardened, remove it from the bust. Turn the mold where you can see the design and brush the latex into the mold over the design. Apply as many coats or layers as wanted and allow it to dry.

Carefully, peel the latex appliance out of the mold and apply a light coat of baby powder to both surfaces of the appliance. Set the appliance on a styrafoam head.

Next step, cut the section from the wig where the appliance will be. Turn down the cut edge of the wig and glue to the appliance and let the glue dry. Take the extra hair from the wig and cut, attach as desired for eyebrows. (NOTE: extra wig hair can be used for mustache extensions and/or beard) To complete appliance, color latex with make-up of appropriate tone.

WARFLEET UNIFORMS

YOKE

Vest and yoke were leather, dyed grey then polished to a shiny silver. The trim plates around the vest are felt hardened with resin but thin steel looks much more impressive, particularly for a 'walk-around' costume that people will be admiring close-up. 'Soft' trim, tubing, stripes, etc are all made from surgical tubing dyed black, with the exception of the girdle tube which is the same buffed silver as the vest and yoke. Obviously vinyl can be used in place of leather...other materials such as linoleum, canvas, etc are also possible substitutes. The patterns on this page show my interpretation of the construction of the basic vest and yoke, with straps and buckles to attach the yoke. Belt and girdle are functional and serve to hold the front and back closed. Stippled areas show material to be omitted for Kruge type uniform. Exotic effects can be had by varying the colours. My own vest and yoke are heavy leather dyed green with embossed 'dragon' scales. With plate steel trims and spine this makes for a more 'armoured' look. The 'V' neckline of the Kruge type uniform is particularly suitable for females.

Western Fleet Commander Qeldas and

The next couple of pages are going to deal with that most elusive of things, the Imperial Klingon Uniform.

First I am going to start off with one of the most impressive costume suppliers in the U.S.- Brian Bero (aka Capt. Kotah sutai-Mang). I have listed both the props and uniforms that he offers. Take my word for it, I have seen these costumes up close and they are very impressive! Brian also supplies cold foam head-pieces. It might be good for some of you out of town crewmembers to send a S.A.S.E. to Replicator Studios and ask for a catalogue I think it would be well worth the 29¢. As soon as I get some funds up I will more than likely buy some things from "the KAG Weapons Master".

(You can find a semi-catalog on the next page for Replicator Studios. It will give you some kind of idea as to what he offers)

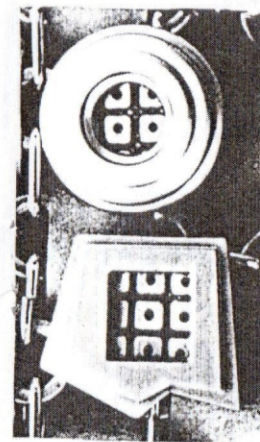

Next on the list is a good friend of mine, Brenda Tackett. Many of you have seen her work on John Tackett and Eaton Adams over in Atlanta. Brenda does very precise work as can be seen when you look at John Tackett's ST 6 uniform. Write Brenda and ask about Klin uniforms and see what she says.

AND FINALLY

Do you want to get a hands on experience in making your uniform? Well I can help you come up with the Imperial uniform of your choice, I have made a few uniforms and I feel comfortable in helping someone else make theirs. All you do is supply your materials, about $80 for the uniform, give or take $20. I am also making cold foam and Hard Latex headpieces. Same story there, you buy the materials and myself and the crew of the WAR DEMON will help you in your endeavor. Give me a call at (205) 979-6268 and we will try to set something up to getting you in uniform!!!

I would like to see most of the WAR DEMON's crew in Imperial uniform, even if it is just your 2nd uniform, the looks we can get with a whole group of the nasty Klingons would be outrageous.

KHETAS, Commander of the IRV BLOODWING, has about 100 of the sets of jewelry that Worf wears on his sash. These are the real thing, folks--we're talking exact Paramount issue, verifiable for all you purists out there! The price is amazingly low---only $30.00 a set. Make checks or money orders out to PAULA CRIST, and mail to her at P.O. BOX 9406, SANTA ROSA CA, 95405.

KONVENTION KLINGON KIT

For those Warriors who attend alot of Conventions for KAG this is an important article. Capt Klag autai- KURKURA has asked my assistance in this because of my long convention attendance record and the fact that I am a costumer as well. Every uniformed Klingon must have his or her Konvention Klingon Kit/ emergency-repair kit.

MAKEUP KIT-

- f. Crepe hair to do eyebrows or edge of hair.
- g. Latex sponges to blend & apply the makeups.
- h. Dark lipstick & eyeliner liquid or pencil.
- i. Scissors (hair cutting)
- j. Bobbi & hair pins to fasten hair & wig.

OTHER HELPFUL MISC. AIDS-

- a. Travel iron-to press out the travel wrinkles
- b. Extra hangers
- c. Paper towels
- d. Clothes pins
- e. Styrofoam wig head- to keep wig shape while not wearing it.

NOW, IF YOU HAVE ANY ROOM LEFT, YOU CAN GO WITH YOUR LUGGAGE TO THE KONVENTION!!

I feel all these things are necessary. Some of you may not. I have included everything so you can have all the choices when packing your kit. You also may have something you take that I have not mentioned. Every person has different needs. Some Klingons pack large quantities of CHARGH-gummy worms because they need emergency rationals!

HoSqapia'Daql

QUARTERMASTER NOTE: If you or your vessel does not have a Konvention Kit - I strongly urge you to get one together. They are not only for cons, but for your other ship's activities as well. And, if you feel that you need other items not mentioned here, throw them in.

These insignia pins are worn on the right collar and denote duty or divisional assignment. These insignia represent various KAG divisions and duty recognition areas. KAG Divisions: Imp. Navy, Imp. Intelligence, KAG Quartermasters, and Imp. Xeno-Legion. Imperial Guard is a now-defunct Division, however two KAG vessels - IKV Reign of Terror and IKV Stormbringer - have been approved to continue wearing the insignia of this Division that they honorably served. Imperial Fleet Marines, once a separate KAG Division, is now a Department of the Imp. Navy. However, they also have been approved to continue wearing the IMF Duty Pin (this also serves to recognize a Marine and the proper Marine rank denotation. This recognition of different rank denotation holds true with the Imperial Xeno-Legion which also uses Marine ranks. KAG Command is a duty recognition insignia to show that the person is part of KAG COMMAND (Fleet and Divisional Commanders and above). Kanadian Fleets insignia is worn by the three Imp. Naval Fleets located in Canada. At one time, Canada was but one Fleet and used this insignia to denote KAG Naval personnel in that country.

Origins: The FASA book THE KLINGONS notes that these insignia pins may also be officially issued for vessels that have earned distinction in combat. Also that there are unofficial insignia issued by Ship Commanders to instill pride and unity among personnel. This is not the case in the Klingon Assault Group. Paramount has never stated exactly what these collar pins represent, so the FASA definitions have been accepted.

Credit: These insignia were derived by placing the divisional/duty initial within a circle, i.e. - Imperial Navy "N". The alphabet used is the Paramount version created by Astra Image Corporation with the following exceptions: Imperial Xeno-Legion uses a stylized "X" and KAG Quartermasters uses the "K" letter from the fan-produced manual U.S.S. Enterprise Officer's Manual whose alphabet was designed by Jeffery Mandel. Kanadian Fleets do use the Astra Image Corporation alphabet, but uses the letter "q". An explanation of the discrepancies of the Kanadian Fleet's and KAG Quartermaster's letters is due to the fact that KAG Quartermaster began using the Mandel "K" letter for their Divisional insignia before a Kanadian Fleets insignia was created. The choice of the Mandel "K" was because there is no "Q" in that alphabet. When Duty Insignia was designed, Quartermasters incorporated their original insignia into the pin. Kanadian Fleets, as were the others, uses the Paramount alphabet where there is no "K" letter - so the "q" was substituted. Designs by KAG Quartermaster KLAG.

classification: UNIFORMS - IMPERIAL subdivision: FEMALE VARIATIONS

Due to the overwhelming requests I've had recently from Klin-sisters wishing to make the female standard duty uniform (that's the one with the boobie plates that inspired off-color remarks from our beloved Quartermaster), I, Kutaj, have prepared this spec sheet.

You'll need:

- a pair of round bra fillers (sold at fabric stores)
- grey felt (about 1/2 yard)
- a piece of grey material (about 18" x 7" minimum) pref. material that doesn't unravel: velour works well
- fabric paint, silver and gunmetal grey, small brush (you'll use more silver)
- compass (to draw circles)
- needle and dark grey or charcoal grey thread and glue!

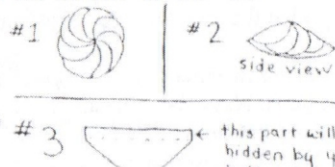

MAKING THE BREASTPLATES

1) Measure the diameter of the bra fillers. You'll want to make the diameter of your felt circles about 1/4 inch larger than half that amount (ex: if the diameter is 6", your felt circles will measure 3 1/4" across).

2) Cut out 8 felt circles for each breastplate. Paint gunmetal grey at the edges and silver as you move in. You can mix the paints to create an intermediate tone that will add 'depth'. Paint with a swirling motion, following the contour of the circle. Let dry.

3) Glue the circles to each bra filler in a pinwheel pattern (illustr. #1). Reinforce with stitching. NOTE: as you work, be sure to keep the cup shape of the bra filler (illustr. #2). Dab paint on the stitches and any parts of the bra filler that show, let dry.

4) Attach to uniform.

MAKING THE "APRON"

1) Make a paper pattern, approx. in the shape of illustration #3. Leave about 1 1/2 to 2 inches of material that will go under your belt.

2) When you're satisfied with the shape and size of your paper pattern, cut the 'apron' out of the grey fabric (if you're using stuff that unravels, hem it).

3) Cut strips of felt, 3/4" wide by 3-4" long.

4) Arrange the felt strips in the herringbone pattern (illustr. #4), trimming strips as needed. You can choose to have them overlap (as they appear to on B'tor's costume) or space them about 1/8" apart (that's what I did).

5) Paint the edges and sides of each strip gunmetal grey, paint the top surface silver. Let dry.

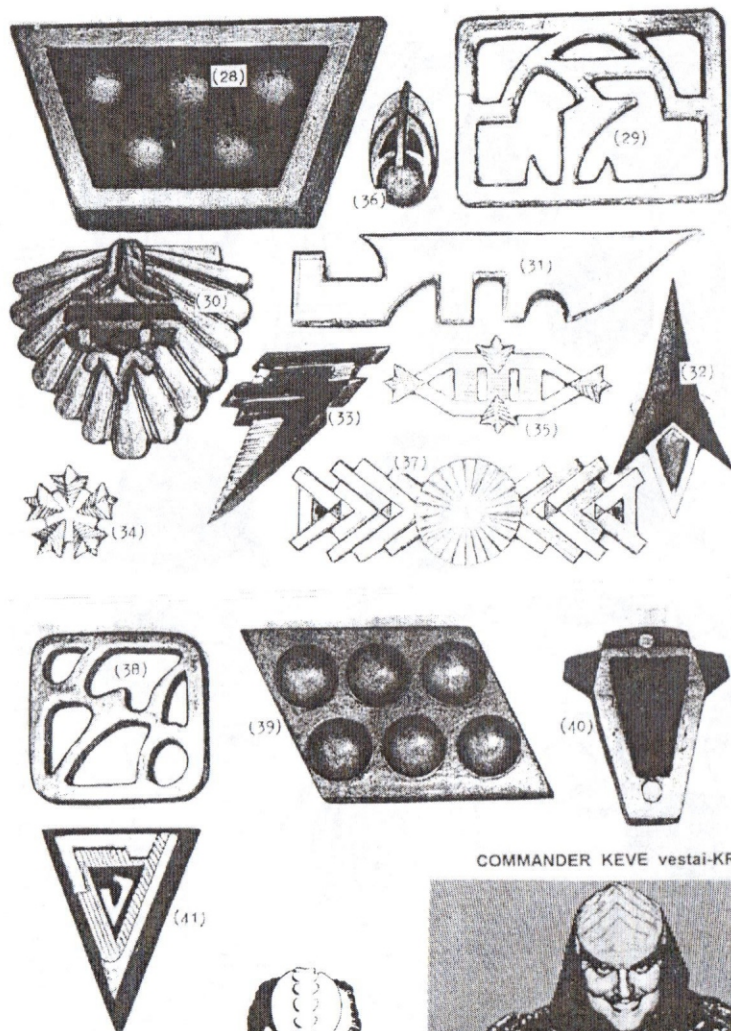

6) Re-arrange the strips on to the fabric piece. Pin in place.

7) Sew each strip on, using the dark grey thread around the edges.

8) Attach to uniform - you can use velcro if you want to use the piece for a Klingon dress as well. I use safety pins - the belt hides them quite nicely!

Just a sample of what you can order from Kéve, the Budget Quartermaster. Most of these pins above are under $15 a piece! Contact info and more samples of pins on the next page.

UNIFORM BELTS and BUCKLES

IMPERIAL BUCKLE

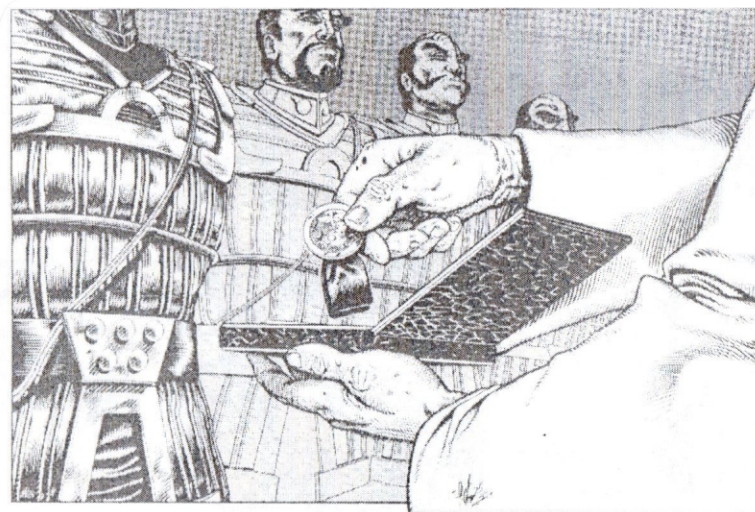

These buckles may be made from materials that are available at the local hobby shops, around your house, and at the local department stores. The back can be made from many things. Thick model plastic (from hobby shops), plexiglass, or plywood are just some examples of materials that may be used. Cut it out to the needed shape. Use fine grit sandpaper to remove any burrs, and rough edges from the cuts. The round parts can be made from small fishing bobbers, split in half. (remove the inner spring, and toss into your spare parts box...it may be used later!) Glue the bobbers on with super glue. If you wish to add the silver stripe, most hobby shops carry a metallic tape that you can easily use. As far as the colors, this style can be all silver, or it can be grey with gold trim and silver globes...or for a more MARINE feel, you may want to go with dark brown as basic color.

FUSION BUCKLE

The construction method is the same as that of the IMPERIAL buckle. The colors here are gold back and silver globes. For a more MARINE feel, you may want to go with a dark brown background and golden globes!

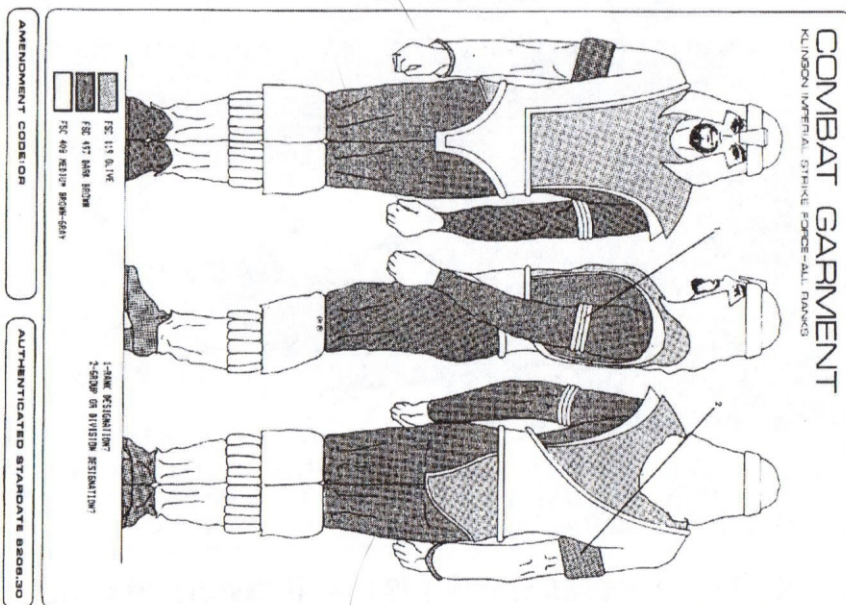

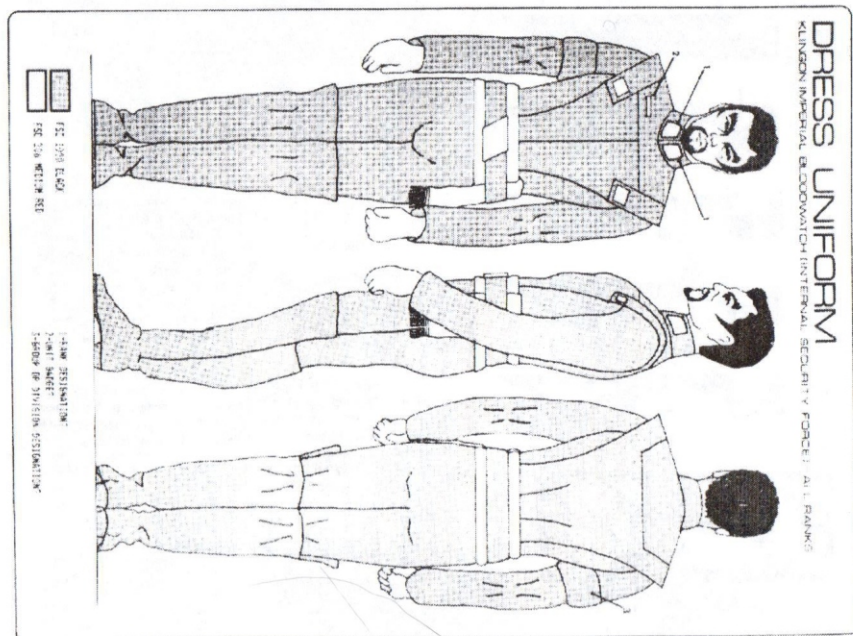

BELTS: you can buy the buckle fasteners at most leather shops. These can be super glued to the buckle, so that you can USE them with your belt. You can use a standard belt, you can buy tight weight leather and make one yourself, or you can use nylon...as long as it is BLACK!

A sharp dressed warrior is a well rewarded one.

This optional device is the equivalent of the Terran "Brass Knuckles", particularly when worn as sets on all four fingers. Both versions of these are popular and are often worn in combinations, and usually on both hands. They give quite an upper hand to the wearer in hand-to-hand combat.

While brass is the norm; stainless steel, silver, gold and various other alloys are not unusual contents of these devices.

comments:

Original Klingon Empire logo seen on the top of the proclamation that Kor holds in the episode "Errand of Mercy". This was also seen as a background wall fixture in the same episode. Was this the intended logo for the Klingon Empire instead of the well known trifoil? I guess we will never know.

BOOTS

MATERIALS: Biker Boots
Velcro

Ankle High Boots

Black vinyl

The most simple way is to purchase biker boots but this can be a major investment. Another approach is to acquire ankle high boots and cut the black vinyl into lengths and widths that can meet the height requirements. It should be cut so that the vinyl can overlap in the back along the calf. Where it overlaps, sew the velcro along this area so that it can be used to secure it around the calf. By using this method you acquire knee high boots with a lot less expense.

AWARDS AND MEDALS

MATERIALS: Costume jewelry Ribbon Plastic

This area of costuming falls under each individuals' own creative talent. By using uniquely designed earrings, necklaces and hat pins an individual can glue them together in designs to resemble awards and medals. The main thing to remember is to keep the basic Klingon conception in design. Most Klingon art is triangular with a combination of sharp points and curves. A real easy way to make an award or medal look Klingonesque, is to use the "Khomerex Stella" or also known as the Imperial Klingon Trefoil.

I hope these articles have been some assistance to those individuals who have had trouble with areas of thier uniform. Again, these are just ideas to consider and to benefit my brother and sister Klingons.
